Where to Stay

Welcome to our essential guide of Where to Stay in the far West of Cornwall.

The St Just and Land's End area is home to a wealth of holiday accommodation. Whether you are looking for spectacular views or a breakfast made from fresh local produce, a rural campsite, a coastal cottage, or a cosy bed and breakfast, our Where to Stay guide has them all.

Accommodation in this guide is varied and has something to suit all styles and pockets. Enjoy browsing the accommodation inside and contact the owners individually for further information.

Discover

Famous all over the world for its mining history, dramatic coastline and spectacular beaches, the St Just and Land's End area, in the far West of Cornwall is one of the most peaceful corners of England.

The area is as diverse as it is beautiful. Watch the dolphins play at Sennen Cove, wander amongst the mine ruins at Botallack, walk the South West Coast Path, or drive the world renowned and wonderfully scenic road from St Ives to Land's End.

All this and more is within easy reach of your holiday accommodation.

Enjoy

During your stay, why not take a guided tour by land or sea, grab your surfboard and hit the waves, enjoy a bicycle ride on country lanes, a round of golf on the edge of the cliff at Cape Cornwall, or a performance at the outdoor Minack Theatre in Porthcurno with its breathtaking views.

With its extensive range of events, carnivals and festivals, including St Just's own Lafrowda Festival in July, the area buzzes with activity throughout the year.

Or why not visit in Autumn for warm seas and days filled with the delights of bird watching, Winter for crashing Atlantic waves and roaring fires, and Spring for fields of golden daffodils, clear skies and walks on deserted beaches.

The Land's End peninsula really is a year round destination with many short break options.

Pease bear in mind that the plotting on this map is approximate, please contact individually if you need directions.

The St Just and Land's End Area Chamber of Commerce is the largest organised group of business people in the area. One of the aims of the Chamber is to help promote members, however, please note that inclusion in this guide does not necessarily signify that a property is approved or graded.
